

THE WORD SHELTER has truly taken on new meaning. For many it signifies isolation; for me it means safety, serenity and strength. While there are many silver linings that emerged from the pandemic, the global gratitude for one's shelter rose to the top. With that came a deeper appreciation for those who build and design homes. And we hope, when life resumes to the new normal, that people will feel even more compelled to improve their homes. I personally have my eye on a few fabulous finds to brighten my house.

Aside from reveling in all the quality time I spent with my husband and child, I was overwhelmed by the camaraderie within the design community. From showroom owners coalescing to iconic designers supporting emerging talent and everyone's agility at hopping on Zoom, we came together to keep our industry connected, positive and productive. I hope the benevolence continues so that we can develop an even more robust industry that is inclusive of all human beings.

Lastly, I want to express my deep gratitude for our publisher, Ali Grosslight. After unexpectedly becoming a full-time home school teacher, Ali has worked hard to keep the brand alive. As a result, we can continue supporting designers, manufacturers and publicists—the ecosystem of our industry. Whether on Zoom, Instagram Live, our website or in the pages of this issue, we are grateful to share your hard work that continues to make life more beautiful. Please take some time to yourself to read these pages, relax and get inspired.

xo,
Lindsey

I AM OBSESSED WITH THESE FOUR NEW PIECES THAT HOPEFULLY WILL FIND A WAY INTO MY HOME:

Radiant Full Moon side table by MQUAN for Lawson-Fenning; lawsonfenning.com

Double Triangle Console by CUFF STUDIO; shop.cuffhome.com

The Construct sconce by KELLY BEHUN for Hudson Valley Lighting; hudsonvalleylighting.bvlggroup.com

THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT the summer of 2020 will remain in our minds for decades to come. During these last couple of months, the days were filled with homeschool and countless hours of screen time on Zoom for virtual birthdays, home tours, meetings and collection previews. While it was not easy, we all did our best to come together as family, friends and colleagues to stay positive and productive. We are beyond thankful for our health and the amazing community that we are able to support (and lean on), laugh with, share our fears with and dream together about what is to come. And for me, that is the silver lining.

My family and I spent the first 58 days of the quarantine with my parents in La Quinta, which was painful for my husband at times, but truly the best use of time for our girls and my parents. Our hope is that they will remember the night swims, golf cart rides, putting practice, at-home buzz cuts and busting a piñata on Cinco de Mayo.

Now that we are back at home in Tiburon, I find myself analyzing every inch of our home, pondering over what to update first. It made me realize how important the design industry is to everyone's life and that this community will be more essential than ever before. Our homes now are not just shelters but also offices, schools and where we retreat. We look forward to seeing the remarkable design ideas that will emerge from this period and more importantly cannot wait until we can see each other again.

From our family to yours, stay well, stay safe and let your creativity run wild!

Enjoy the issue,

Ali

HERE ARE A FEW CURRENT OBSESSIONS THAT I WANT FOR MY OWN HOME RENOVATION:

I fell in love with the new Stockholm sconce by FUSE LIGHTING while attending a virtual studio walkthrough with Kevin and the Hewn team. The shape and material are so simple and stunning.

Available at Hewn; hewnsf.com

I am also obsessing over how to create a staycation feel in our outdoor living spaces. The new collection of outdoor fabrics from MARIAFLORA OUTDOOR is beyond dreamy and will add the perfect amount of sophistication. Available at De Sousa Hughes;

desousahughes.com

I want this Beverage Column (full-size units dedicated solely to beverages) in Saffron by TRUE RESIDENTIAL so that I can add a pop of color and extra function to our kitchen. Available at The Bath+Beyond;

bathandbeyond.com

PLEASE SHARE YOUR OBSESSIONS WITH US BY POSTING ON INSTAGRAM AND TAG @CAHOMEANDDESIGN. WE WOULD LOVE TO HEAR FROM YOU!
